Brief Description of CIMB-CAP-2203-020

This multicolored prunus vase with phoenix and peony patterns has a short and thin neck and round foot. Its neck and shoulders are decorated with floral patterns, while its body is embellished with phoenix and peony patterns. The color diffusion and development are naturalistic. Its texture is clear and lustrous, and the painting is vivid and charming. The biscuit ceramic is thick and heavy. The outer bottom isn't glazed, and its foot has obvious cutting marks. In terms of the painting, the beautiful composition is arranged with great discipline. The phoenix, despite being highlighted, blends perfectly with the floral pattern. The entire painting is sophisticated but in perfect order. Meanwhile, the strokes are deep and strong, and the blue-and-white glaze is bright but simple. The overall style is vivid and vigorous. The body carries a phoenix, below which one can see a circle of seven-petal lotuses facing upward. Additionally, the body contains several peonies with undulating branches. Prunus vases with peony and phoenix patterns were typical in the Yuan dynasty. In terms of form, ceramic in that time was tall, large, solemn, vigorous and simple. This vase with peony and phoenix patterns has a large body and is in the distinctive blue-and-white style of the Yuan dynasty.

Market price: USD13,000-36,200
